

Professional Portfolio

Description:

This website will serve as a gallery of all the relevant professional ventures I have undertaken, alongside a summary of who I am and how to reach me. I intend to use this site in a manner similar to LinkedIn, but with a key difference: each "post" will be highly technical. This collection will also include smaller milestones that I haven't posted on LinkedIn but still consider important. Another feature is a page dedicated to what I'm currently working on, functioning like a live update feed; its purpose is to show recruiters the skills I'm developing, even before they make it onto my resume. This website demonstrates my technical ability both directly, since I built it myself, and inherently, through the content it showcases. It also allows people I know to stay updated on what I'm doing, down to the smaller details, and ought to help distinguish me within a competitive applicant pool.
